

Solutions in Action

The challenge

Working closely with site architects Peter Collier, Spaceway was asked to develop a creative, space efficient design for street lighting and highway equipment supplier, John Wilkinson Ltd.

The company's new headquarters in Downton Business Park, Hampshire needed to incorporate a mezzanine solution to more than double the available space from 2,000 sq. ft to 4,500 square foot. All work needed to be carried out in line with the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) to ensure that wheelchair users and people with disabilities had easy access to the building.

Spaceway has delivered this....

....and this

Spaceway's approach

To begin the project Spaceway installed a FlooriTall two-storey mezzanine to increase the office area to 3,000 sq. ft. Once this structural work had been completed, Spaceway then set about creating the offices by installing fully glazed Komfort partitioning, lighting and carpets.

When John Wilkinson saw the finished offices, it asked Spaceway to expand their brief by installing a further mezzanine floor to create an additional 500 sq feet of storage space. To complete the storage installation, Spaceway fitted a racking system to enable John Wilkinson's to store street lighting and highway's equipment such as bollards and traffic signs and supplied a reach truck through its partnership agreement with Eurotrucks Direct (South) Ltd

Benefits delivered

"Spaceway has creative designs backed by quality products and an excellent management team", said Nick Alexander, Managing Director of John Wilkinson Ltd. "We have been delighted with the final project which supplies our staff with a functional and comfortable environment".
