

Solutions in Action

The challenge

Spaceway has undertaken two projects for Internet sports company, Wiggle, at its new headquarters at Mountbatten Business Park in Portsmouth. The work has included:

- Doubling Wiggle's new 285 sq. metre storage area by installing a mezzanine floor and fitting a two-tier longspan racking system, flooring and associated lighting and electrics.
- Maximising space in Wiggle's main 400 square metre building by installing mezzanine floors, racking, offices and a staff recreation room.
- Carrying out all the construction and electrical work and then fitting out the area with racking, office furniture and furnishings.

Spaceway's approach

Spaceway designed, project managed and constructed both schemes on time and within budget, leaving the management free to concentrate on their business of running the company.

Spaceway supplied detailed drawings for both projects then implemented them in a staged approach liaising every step of the way with the management but providing a total integrated solution right through to snagging and commissioning.

New headquarters now looks like this....

Benefits delivered

“We have always been very pleased with the work done by Spaceway”, says Harvey Jones, Technical Director. “It is especially useful to know that just one company is handling the complete project from design through to commissioning.”
